Serianni-Norman Vows Plighted at Nativity

In a mid-afternoon ceremony at the Nativity Catholic Church on Saturday, March 17, Miss Alvenia Mary Serianni, daughter of Mrs. Letha Halsey of Torrance, became the bride of Raymond Eugene Norman Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Norman, 22620 Anza Ave.

Rev. Thomas Glynn officiated at the vow exchange.

The bride came to the altar on the arm of her uncle, Raymond Thomas. She wore a white taffeta gown detailed with Sabrina neckline and long pointed sleeves. The bodice of the gown was appliqued with Alencon lace. The full taffeta skirt fell into a chapel train. A sweetheart headpiece secured the illusion veil and the bride carried white orchids encircled by white carnations.

Miss Judy Norman was maid of honor and Bertha Johnson was bridesmaid. Both wore taffeta sheaths with chiffon overskirts.

Charles A. Norman was best man and Daniel Norman was the usher.

After the wedding, a reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

The newlyweds spent a honeymoon in Santa Barbara and are now at home in Torrance.

The new Mrs. Norman is employed by the South Bay Credit Bureau in Torrance and her husband is employed by the General Telephone Co.

Before we married I told my husband about this child and he asked me to get my boy back. I refused, saying I had a moral obligation to stick to my decision. I thought that ended it.

We now have a baby of our own but my husband is still not satisfied. He tells me either I get the boy back or he will leave me. Every argument ends up the same way. He promises if I do as he says we will never have any trouble again.

I need your advice fast.

Dear S. L. O.: Your husband probably wants to leave and is looking for an excuse. If you do this terrible thing he'll find another reason to leave.

Tell him the decision to give the boy up was yours and it has nothing to do with him. He has no right to ask you to try to unwind it.

Confidential to NEEDY NOT GREEDY: Your sad story gets me right here, pal. Why don't you do your homework instead of writing phony letters?

Philanthropy Function to Be Subject

Social and Economic Issues study group of the Manhattan Beach Branch of the American Association of University Women will discuss its study of private philanthropies at the April 9 meeting of the group in the Community Church, 303 Peck Ave.

Mrs. Richard A. Willis, chairman, will introduce the subject with the film, "The Money Raisers." The film paints a brief portrait of philanthropy today — its bigness, usefulness, growing pains and areas for criticism. It also presents a look at the people (mostly women) who are involved in making philanthropy function.

Members of the study group who will elaborate on conditions existing in the South Bay will be Mmes Howard Harsh, Ruben Jimenez and Louis Kilgore.

These women will in part review the Rockefeller Report on private philanthropy for 1961, new trends and solutions to the problems of philanthropy, and the provisions for social service in the city of Los Angeles in comparison to those communities in the South Bay.

Election of officers for the coming year is also on the

Garden Club Beach Cities Symphony Has Meeting In Concert on April 13

Torrance Terrace Garden Club met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Ernest Farrant, 21732 Palos Verdes Blvd.

The hostess served a desert luncheon and the members spent the afternoon decorating place cards with seashells in preparation for the forthcoming District Garden Club breakfast.

Mrs. William Winterstein will entertain the club Wednesday at her home, 25921 Matfield Dr.

Attending the meeting were Mmes James Panish, M. L. Hartley, Harvey Klein, Minot Rugg, Elmer Davis, F. Sandstrom, A. C. Turner, William Winterstein and B. K. Baine.

The nominating committee has selected the following slate of officers: Mmes Michael Lesh, president; Ronald V. Webb, first vice president; Orlando Tafuya, second vice president; Raymond H. Reaber, recording secretary; Robert Rupkey, corresponding secretary; and L. D. Hassman, treasurer.

Local music lovers will have an unusual opportunity on Friday evening, April 13, when the Beach Cities Symphony Association will sponsor a concert by the Peter Moreblum California Junior Symphony Orchestra in the Mira Costa High School Auditorium.

Organized originally in 1936 as a string ensemble, this aggregation grew into the Junior Symphony Orchestra within the year. Its 26 seasons make it the first and oldest of its kind in California, the prototype for numerous other locals.

Most of the Junior Symphony's 100 musicians are of high school age, although it does have some younger members. Recruits for the Junior Symphony come mainly from the ranks of its younger endeavor, the Pioneer Orchestra composed of 8 to 14 year olds.

Graduates of the Peter

Moreblum organization have been so well trained and prepared that many have entered directly into higher musical activities and now occupy first chairs in such major symphonies as the Los Angeles Philharmonic, Cleveland, Chicago and Indianapolis.

By coincidence, Gary Karr, the first double bass player, has been selected by Leonard Bernstein as soloist with the New York Philharmonic on the television program to be carried at 4:30 p.m. over Channel 4 on April 13.

Louis S. Palange, musical director of the sponsoring Beach Cities Symphony, will appear as guest conductor. Because the local concert by the California Junior Symphony Orchestra is being co-sponsored by Los Angeles County through its Music Commission, there will be no admission charge.
